

Code of Ethics for Members

Being a member of BREA increases your business and professional profile. BREA has built a strong brand and reputation for being the leading NGO in the region championing Energy Efficiency and Renewable Energy initiatives and strategies both domestically and regionally. With the benefits of membership comes the responsibility of each member to conduct themselves in a manner that does not detract from the positive reputation of BREA.

As a member, you undertake and commit to the following:

- To practice your profession with integrity, honesty, truthfulness and adherence to safeguarding the public trust in BREA and your respective profession.
- To conduct your business and professional affairs in a manner that does not reflect negatively on BREA.
- To operate in a professional and fair basis with your Customers and Suppliers.
- To honor warranties and guarantees on your products and services in a timely manner.
- To promote the best interests and reputation of BREA.
- To operate within the law and the rules and regulations of Barbados.
- To operate safely in the field, and be ever mindful of the health and safety of employees and the public.
- To maintain in good standing with Barbados Revenue Authority and National Insurance Service.
- You shall not exploit any relationship with a donor, prospect, partners of BREA or an organization BREA has a relationship with to the disadvantage of BREA.
- You should not use the good office of BREA without the explicit consent of BREA to benefit you or your company/organization.
- You should not use the name of BREA to further a personal or organizational agenda without the explicit consent of BREA.

I the undersigned, have read the BREA Code of Ethics for members in full and agree to abide by the above procedures, recognizing that any violation of this Code of Ethics may serve as a basis for my membership within the organization being revoked.

Print Name:

Accepted by BREA:

Signed:

Signed:

Date:

Date: